

January Meeting

Special Screening of the New Documentary Film

Band of Sisters tells the story of Catholic nuns and their work for social justice after Vatican II. For Catholics who wonder what became of the nuns they knew in habits and convents many years ago, for activists who may feel profoundly discouraged given the problems of today's world, for women seeking equality in their church, and for people of all faiths yearning for an inclusive and contemplative spirituality, Band of Sisters challenges us to ask what really matters in life. And as we seek what matters, how do we go about changing our lives and the world around us?

This new film, which runs 88 minutes, has been successful on the festival circuit and will have a theatrical release at the Cinema Village in New York City later in January. There will be time for discussion after our screening.
